AMMONIA WAKES THE DRUNKS

Their Clubs.

Squirt a Powerful Olor Into the Sleeper's Mustache. Ever since the Police Commissioners issued the edict against members of "the finest" carying their locusts during the day the patrolmen of the down town precincts have been trying to by Steinhardt, Heidelberg & Co.

The ground floor is occupied as a retail clothing store

Workmen are tearing down the adjoining building at 51 Broadway, and the garment-cutters declared that they felt the building swaying, and that it was about to fall, owing to the removal of supports on the downtown side by the workmen at 531.

The ground floor is occupied as a find something which would take the place of the club when it was found necessary to recall sleeping "drunks" from the land of dreams to the stern real-titles of Park Row existence. Formerly supports on the downtown side by the soles of a sleeper's feet had the desired effect. Denied that method of rousing the dormant powers of locomotion in the sodden gentry it was often necessary to spend the greater part of an find something which would take the place of the club when it was found necsoles of a sleeper's feet had the desired effect. Denied that method of rousing the dormant powers of locomotion in the sodden gentry it was often necessary to spend the greater part of an hour persuading an individual to hie himself away. But it was not long before the inventive genius of an Oak street station patrolman made the way all smooth and beautiful once more. Now a five-cent rubber ball has taken the place of the eighteen-inch stick, Apparently harmless as this little toy looks to the uninitiated, its efficacy as a "burn" accelerator far exceeds a whole bundle of night sticks, it isn't the rubber ball, but its contents, that does the business. Every patrolman in the Fourth Ward now fills a rubber ball with household ammonia when he starts out in the morning. A gentle pressure of the thumb and finger projects a line stream of fluid lightning from the small hole in the hollow sphere a distance of several feet.

This tiny stream brought to bear upon a "sleeper's" mustache has never yet failed to bring about an immediate revivifying of the subject, no matter how inert the bundle of "burn" appeared to be a moment previous.

Connelly admits having burglarized the apartments of Marie Potts, 250 Tenth avenue; Herman Roose, 252 Tenth avenue, and Mrs. Nolly, in the same house.
He got into the rooms by the Bre-escape. He was suspected and detectives were sent to arrest him. He learned of this and disposed of a truck load of goods he was sent to deliver and left the horse and cart at the Battery.
He went to Europe and has visited this country twice since.
He came back again last Sunday and the detectives caught him.
